

3D surface plot showing the percentage of respondents for different attitudes (反対, やや反対, やや賛成, 賛成) across two principal components (主成分1, 主成分2). The vertical axis represents the percentage of respondents, scaled by 10. The surface shows that '反対' (Opposition) is highest at low values of both components, while '賛成' (Approval) is highest at high values of both components.

